TINA LERNER LIKES CHOPIN

Will Play Five Numbers From Noted Composer Tomorrow.

A glance at the programs given by musicians usually is sufficient to show their favorite composers. Tina Lerner, the young Russian pianist who will play in the University Auditorium tomorrow night is one instance of this.

Chopin, Miss Lerner's favorite among composers, is represented on the program which she will play here by five numbers. The artistic interpretation of this difficult music, for which Miss Lerner is famous, may be heard in the "Fantasie in F Minor, in two 'Etudes,' in the 'Nocturne in B Major' and in a 'Tarantelle.'

Modern composers and those of the older school are included in Miss Lerner's repertoire. Other numbers which she will play here are: an "Adagio" from Mozart, "Rondo Brillante" by Weber, "Barcarolle in A Minor" by Rubenstein, "Alceste" by Gluck-Saint-Saens, and a "Valse Caprice" by Strass-Tausig.

Miss Lerner will play two numbers from Liszt, the "Sonetto del Petrarca" and a "Spanish Rhapsody." She will include among the works of modern composers, a number written and dedicated to herself. This is an "Etude Arabesque" by Hinton.

Miss Lerner's concert will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Praises M. U. Journalism Desk Book. The Newspaper Journal and World of London, England, reprints, with editorial endorsement, a chapter from the Desk Book of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri, suggesting that the style is "well worth following in this country."
